King's College has a pupil admission policy that does not permit sex, race, colour or disability to be used as criteria for admission. King's College's aim is to provide for all pupils according to their needs, irrespective of gender, ability or ethnic origin. The Education Reform Act 1988 states that "the curriculum should reflect the culturally diverse society to which pupils belong and of which they will become adult members" and this is particularly pertinent to our educational environment.
